IMPORTANT INFORMATION

PLEASE READ BEFORE ORDERING

Opening an account at Chapter Two is very straightforward. Your first order and payment will normally open an account with us. Once you have established a regular pattern of invoices and paid our invoices, we will supply you on account. Please pay your invoices(s) promptly and quote your account code and invoice number when making payments. Always quote your account code when reordering; you can make a note of it here: ___/___

When ordering please use the six digit order code as well as giving the names of the author and title and other relevant information as listed in the catalogue as this enables us to serve you efficiently. There are no packing and postage charges for orders of over £25.00 to be delivered in the UK. Orders of £25.00 or less to be delivered in the UK and all overseas orders are charged packing and postage costs.

How to pay. The best way to pay is by debit or credit card when ordering. You may also pay in Euros or US Dollars to our bank account in the Netherlands (for Euros) or with a US$ cheque (please add $5.00 handling charge for this method).

All the prices in our catalogue and on our invoices are calculated in UK sterling (British pounds). Our invoice is usually contained in the 'Documents Enclosed' window which forms the address label on the parcel in which the books are sent to you.

Prices are current and are maintained wherever possible, but are subject to change without notice. This catalogue is only a guide. We sell our books at the price ruling at the date of our invoice.

Dues. Books (over £1.50 value) which are temporarily out of stock at the time of ordering will be recorded and sent to you when we receive the item(s). If this service is not required, it is important you let us know.

Only authorised returns are accepted. Correctly supplied orders are subject to a £5.00 handling charge if returned. Approved returns of damaged or incorrectly supplied items will be given a full credit immediately, providing account code and invoice number are correctly quoted. We will credit the return postage when we are at fault. For items sent on approval, the postage in both directions will be chargeable to your account if the books are declined.

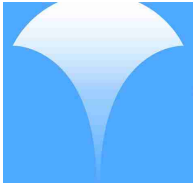

Correspondence may be sent in Afrikaans, Dutch, English, French, Hebrew, German, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese & Spanish (we can usually handle Arabic too!). Generally we reply in English as we assume that if you can read our books, then you will manage our letters! Please address all business communications to Chapter Two and not to individuals. If the person you address is travelling abroad your urgent order may not be dealt with until they return!

Trade orders. Minimum £60.00 retail value. Bona fide traders with regular shop hours may ask for our trade account application form.

Data Protection Act 1998: This Act requires us to inform our customers that their names and addresses are stored in our computer.

Life and Times of C. H. Mackintosh

Many will know the initials 'CHM' belong to the evangelical and edifying author, Charles Henry Mackintosh. Born in 1820 in Ireland, he was converted at around 18 years of age. In 1854 he gave up his secular work to serve the Lord full-time, and became a noted preacher around the British Isles and an author of many books and pamphlets on a variety of spiritual subjects. The influence of his ministry has been world-wide. Moody, the famous American evangelist, wrote of his collection of CHM's writings that he: 'would rather part with my entire library, excepting my Bible, than with these writings. They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures.' To our knowledge this is the first ever biography of this faithful servant of God. It makes a worthy companion of the author's earlier work on one of CHM's contemporaries: The Irish Saint and Scholar, a biography of William Kelly. In his inimitable style, he captures something of CHM's character, as well as the episodes of his life and the issues he encountered, including his early days, his career as a writer and in other service, his involvement in the 1859 revival, his views on church matters and other controversies of his times, and his closing days at the end of the 19th century. There are also five appendices of additional interesting information. It is a thoroughly recommended read.

FAQ Frequently Asked Questions

Designed to meet the information needs of busy people, the title itself 'Frequently Asked Questions' has been reduced to the acronym 'FAQs'. There couldn't be more important information to take in than the subject of this book: Christian truth - 'the faith once delivered unto the saints' (Jude 3). The author's direct and concise style takes the form of FAQs, not to dodge detailed and intensive Bible study but to encourage younger readers to get started doing it. He covers the person, sufferings, offices and return of the Lord Jesus, the gospel both in terms of justification and deliverance, the church today and the inspiration of the Bible.

Baptism: What does the Bible teach?

Baptism is a topic which has often divided believers, quite often those who would otherwise interpret the rest of the Bible very similarly. The division is broadly between those who regard only baptism of those who profess they believe on the Lord Jesus as valid, and those who allow for, and themselves practise, infant or household baptism. This new edition of Harry Ironside's work on the subject examines both views in the light of Scripture and finds much evidence for baptising those who are of an age when they can profess to be Christians.

GAUTESEN, H.

A Child of Wisdom

The author lived in relative loneliness because he was true to what he believed. Only true personal communion with his Lord and Saviour sustains a soul in such circumstances. It is the joy of this personal communion which gives him the peculiar insight into the Lord's feelings which adds a special flavour to his writing.

The True Worship

'Worship is an attitude of spirit, taken by men realising the presence of God revealed.' In this gem of a book the author takes John 4:23 as a key verse and seeks to establish from the Scriptures what true worship really is. He contrasts this with Old Testament practices, ritualistic worship predominant in Christendom and the loose use of the term in today's liberal modernism. The demand for this book has led to the present third printing after its appearance as a series of articles in the Scripture Truth Magazine in 1964. There are now over 10,000 copies in print. Bethel, The Dwelling Place of the God of Jacob

An important study dealing with the theme of where God dwells and where this dwelling might be realised today. The Patriarchs are remote from our time, the events recorded in Genesis happened more than thirty-five centuries ago, and yet Jacob is like us. We can identify ourselves with him: continuously devising our own plans. God eventually succeeds in bringing him back to Bethel, the house of God. He is a monument of the Holy Spirit's work in the believer and in our lives as well. God can do what He did in Jacob's life.

A People Planted in the Promised Land, Jacob's Last Words (3rd edition revised).

The author looks at three perspectives, historical, prophetic and spiritual. The historical view provides the reader with some very useful background information. He makes a very useful comparison with Moses blessing the twelve tribes in Deuteronomy. The prophetic aspect is dispensational and pre-millennial. The spiritual application of the failings of the tribes to Christian life is very helpful. This book is easy to digest and is well worth reading.

Samson: Loser or Winner?

An excellent character study. Many know Samson only as a strong man, or as a dramatic figure in his relationship with Delilah. Often these are distorted ideas about biblical facts. The Irish Saint and Scholar - A biography of William Kelly

'An interesting, illustrated biography of one of the foremost men among the so-called Plymouth-Brethren. ...

It is clear from the very outset that this book, which charts the life of William Kelly, is thoroughly researched and the fruit of extensive reading. As the author states of Kelly, 'Like his mentor Darby, he left no diaries for our study ... Kelly would rather we learnt more of our Bibles and Christ, since the prime and constant theme of his written and oral ministry was to this end'.

Edwin Cross writes about the life of one of the foremost scholars of his day and, yet, one who used that ability to defend the truth of scripture from fierce attack. Whilst the Oxford Movement may mean little to many today, it was then a powerful force for evil. Together with social and political factors, the author seeks to paint the background of the life of a man who was undoubtedly used of God. Few have been as prolific a writer and distributor of literature as Kelly. Even his mentor, John Nelson Darby, owed much to the work of William Kelly in seeing his collected writings published. This is a fascinating book and one that demonstrates the author's obvious affection for his subject. However, the divisions of the system with which Kelly had become associated cast a shadow over a life which had, otherwise, achieved so much. Being part of that system the author is at pains to support the stance that Kelly took and the weakening of testimony that ensued.

Overall, this is an interesting book that is recommended as one from which we can learn a lot about the early days of a movement that restored so much of New Testament church principles and the truth of the rapture that had been lost to generations.' Precious Seed Magazine

CHAPTER TWO TITLES

This biography of William Kelly (1821-1906) is the first of a man who, though younger than the first Brethren, was at the forefront of their activities throughout much of the nineteenth century, and who had a very large influence in Brethren circles and far beyond through his writings and preaching. Educated at Trinity College, Dublin, he was held in esteem for both his scholarship and his godly ways. This esteem continues; his books are still widely sought after. The author of this biography has sought to convey as much as possible of Kelly's work, personality, and domestic circumstances as can be gleaned from the material now available. In addition, considerable information is given on a number of Kelly's lesser-known contemporaries and on the assembly at Blackheath during the years he attended there. Through these pages, we learn of the way God used a man who dedicated his energies and scholastic brilliance, not to his own advancement, but to the glory of the Lord who had died to save him.

The author's direct and concise style takes the form of FAQs, not to dodge detailed and intensive Bible study but to encourage younger readers to get started doing it. He covers the person, sufferings, offices and return of the Lord Jesus, the gospel both in terms of justification and deliverance, the church today and the inspiration of the Bible.

HARRIS, J. L.

Antinomianism & Legalism, What is the rule for Christian Conduct?

Considered by some as the best treatment of this subject by an author from the first half of the 19th century. Formerly an Anglican clergyman he came among those known as Brethren. His perspective is neither Arminian, nor Antinomian. He demonstrates from the Holy Scriptures, without wresting any text from its context, that Christ is the end of the law to them that believe.

IRONSIDE, H.A.

Baptism: What does the Bible teach?

Baptism is a topic which has often divided believers, quite often those who would otherwise interpret the rest of the Bible very similarly. The division is broadly between those who regard only baptism of those who profess they believe on the Lord Jesus as valid, and those who allow for, and themselves practise, infant or household baptism. This new edition of Harry Ironside's work on the subject examines both views in the light of Scripture and finds much evidence for baptising those who are of an age when they can profess to be Christians.

We regret we cannot split packs or make up smaller numbers due to the volume of enquiries and the unreasonably high cost this extra work would cause. Other colour tracts from other publishers can cost £5.00 per hundred. Occasionally one or more of the above tracts becomes temporarily out of print due to the continuing heavy demand. We normally send a substitute title of equal value if this occurs. For our free sample tract pack, please write to us with stamped, addressed envelope

'We conclude that a man is justified by faith'

Romans 3:28

The prices given are for 2010. The price can vary every year according to the publisher's price. Please check to be sure. Order calendars early (well before December) to avoid disappointment. Mail order customers should note that single calendars do not fare well through the post – multiples of two or four are best!

	‘They opened up the Scriptures in their comprehensiveness in a way that nothing else has ever touched.’ H. A. Ironside.
	‘His “synopsis” remains the one book par excellence for the Bible reader and student who desires to get a full, clear summary of the contents and scope of the Word of God.’ S. Ridout.
	‘An incomparable commentary on the whole of Scripture’ T. W. Carron in The Christian Testimony .
	Loizeaux Brothers originally published the above. It is now presented in an attractive quality two-part leatherette sewn case-bound five-volume set. The spine and front cover are gold blocked. Its special feature for the student of Scripture is that the commentary is carefully divided into chapter headings and subdivided into headed paragraphs for quick and easy reference.

	This is Darby's classic work originally given as 11 lectures in Geneva in 1840. They caused a considerable stir and much interest in evangelical circles at the time. The truths set out then, though often attacked in the past and still currently the object of attack by those who resist the truth, have never seriously been challenged from Scripture.

GRANT, L. M.

Born in 1917 in Alberta, Canada, the author came to know the Lord Jesus at the age of seventeen. After leaving education he worked for an optical firm until his mid-twenties when the Lord called him to full-time service. Initially he spent much of his time reading and studying the Word, and lived in a trapper's cabin while spreading the gospel to the local population of that part of the country. Over time his ministry extended to the United States and expanded into magazine articles and the books he has written on so many parts of the Bible. He has also been a frequent contributor to the devotional calendar The Lord is Near and a gifted writer of spiritual poetry and hymns. This in turn has brought his insightful ministry to the attention of believers across the world. The hallmark of his Bible expositions are three 'C's': clear, comprehensive and concise.

HOLDEN, R.

Formerly an Anglican clergyman, Richard Holden went to Portugal in the Lord's work. His six letters to his mother giving reasons for leaving the Church of England had in its time a wide circulation. Besides many hymns in Portuguese still in use today, he wrote the beautiful English hymn 'Lord of Glory, we adore Thee'. He laboured much, amidst persecution and rejection, for his stand for the truth. Even in death, his body was twice refused burial because the proceedings were without an ordained clergyman. His widow recorded in a letter that he was buried outside the gates.

HOLE, F. B.

(1874-1964) was born into privileged circumstances and had the ability to do well in the world. He was converted at the age of 16 and after a short period in the family business and banking profession gave up his secular employment to become a full-time worker for the Lord Jesus. He was an evangelist and teacher, and also a publisher and magazine editor, responsible for the magazine Scripture Truth for nearly 20 years until 1962. He was an able speaker, preaching in many parts of Britain as well as in the West Indies and South Africa, and a prolific writer. He had a wonderful ability to keep things simple and yet get across the most profound truths. He had a particular knack of explaining scriptural principles with everyday illustrations. His expositions of the New Testament books in Scripture Truth now form a complete commentary from

Matthew to Revelation, and among his other writings the books The Great Salvation, Foundations of the Faith and Outlines of Truth are particularly valued as effective yet concise treatments of subjects such as redemption, sin and sins, law and grace. They also include able responses to questions people still raise about the bearing of the Scriptures on these subjects.

Can a believer 'belong' to anything else but the one body of Christ? Is there not one abiding and existing membership to which we must be continually loyal? Secret, sectional or sectarian associations should all be scrutinised in the light of the Bible. This booklet deals only with 'secret societies' but the questions regarding other memberships and associations need to be answered too!

KELLY, T.

113026 Andrew Dunn's Conversion, booklet £0.75

This excellent booklet is a true account of Dunn's conversion from priest-craft to Christ. Andrew Dunn was an earnest Irishman who had been brought up a devout Roman Catholic, but the Lord gave him light from the Scriptures and he was brought to know the Lord Jesus and brightly saved. The author is the much-loved hymn writer whose compositions appear in many hymnbooks.

		Perhaps the best single volume history of the church available today. 'The author has spared no pains to present a thoroughly fair account of the main facts of Christendom, and of the men who have taken a prominent part in it for good or ill. No single work contains such a full and reliable view of all that is important to be known by the intelligent Christian reader. It is the first ecclesiastical history from the pen of one who, with ardent love for souls and marked blessing from the Lord in the practical work of evangelizing, combines an adequate knowledge of what the church really is, as the body of Christ and the house of God; the first, consequently, with the right sense of what is due to the Lord's glory in both respects.' 	'The reader will do well to procure and circulate this treatise, which discusses with calmness the subject of divine righteousness in its various bearings within eight chapters and less than 170 pages. Extracts are given in the Introduction, which indicate clearly the Puritanical source of that modern divinity which attributes pardon to the blood and justification and heaven to the law-fulfilling of Christ; and this in contrast with the larger and truer thoughts of the Reformers. It is plain, however, that God has been graciously pleased to clear away yet more of error and to bring out the truth of Scripture on this grave theme with increasing light in our own day. Puritanism, as to God's testimony, was no movement in advance.' Reviewed by W. Kelly in the Bible Treasury, 1st. April, 1865.

ROSSIER, H. L.

(1835-1928) was born in French Switzerland to Christian parents. He studied medicine and practiced as a doctor for many years, but also devoted himself to the ministry of God's Word in Switzerland, Germany and France. He translated and edited the writings of J N Darby and was also editor of the French ministry magazine Messenger Evangelique for more than half-a-century. He also composed hymns and wrote commentaries on most of the Bible, some of which have been translated into English. His books are particularly valued because they are comprehensive in the way they treat Scriptures other authors do not cover in such detail, especially in the Old Testament. They are also fresh and practical in the way they address and apply the lessons these Scriptures bring us.

	(1862-1943) was born in Surrey, England and worked in the building trade until the first year or so of the 20 th century when he began his full-time Christian ministry. He frequently contributed articles to the Scripture Truth magazine and edited Notes of Interest on the Lord's Work . Many of his articles for Scripture Truth formed the basis for expositions, and these are choice both in terms of getting the truth across in a clear, ordered and concise way and appealing to the affections of his readers for Christ. They cover various parts of the Bible and include pen pictures of Old Testament characters as well as commentaries on many New Testament books. His expositions of the Song of Solomon and the last words of the Lord Jesus (John 13-17) are particularly fine examples of his ministry. He may not have been as well known as others during his life but his writings have become some of the most well read in recent years, and rightly so.

This book is one of the best helps in giving a simple description of the origins of Islam, what Moslems believe and how it affects their attitudes, worldview, daily life and culture. It also gives practical guidelines on how to relate to Moslems appropriately as well as witnessing effectively and caring for converts to Christ. The author is Director of the Institute for the Study of Islam and Christianity, a Christian research institute specialising in the status of Christian minorities in the Moslem world. In view of the current concerns many have it is well to be informed. This book will be a real help.

- STANLEY, C.
(1821-1890) – well-known by his initials CS – grew up in Yorkshire, England. He was orphaned at four years of age and had to start work when he was seven. He came to know the Lord Jesus when he was 14 and went on to serve Him for the rest of his life especially in gospel preaching. He was without doubt an evangelist and took advantage of the advantages which his job as a commercial traveller offered him to reach out to the lost throughout the length and breadth of Britain. But he was also gifted in applying Scripture – including Old Testament events and practices – to the life and service of believers. The pithy, plain writing in his 'CS tracts' has been a blessing to saint and sinner, and his exposition of Romans and autobiographical account The Way the Lord Hath Led Me respectively a help in understanding the gospel and an encouragement to serve the Lord in it.

113522 The Child of God, pb; Set of three volumes specially reduced price £11.50
The Child of God trilogy has been a blessing to so many over the years and is full of sound doctrine to establish the believer in the present truth of Christianity.
113054 The Child of God – His Life, pb £3.95
The mystery and necessity of the new birth, the nature of God and man's nature, eternal life and related subjects are biblically dealt with in this choice book.
113055 The Child of God – His Liberty, pb £3.95
This book details the believer's struggles for deliverance and the hindrances to enjoying the Father's love that the Christian may face. True Christian liberty can be manifested amidst the trials of life in the enjoyment of relationship and growth in the things of God as well as our enjoyment of being sons of God.
113056 The Child of God – His Path and Glory, pb £3.95
The pathway of the believer should be marked by longings after God and engaged in daily, deep communion with the Lord and with the Father. There will be conflict and exercises as we wrestle and lay hold on eternal life. Holy living in the present is linked with the eternal future glory. This book ends in a choice meditation on the final destiny of the child of God – with Christ in the glory of heaven.

Truth and Testimony is a quarterly Bible teaching magazine. Its purpose is to spread the glory of the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who is the Head of the church and Lord of every Christian, and bring blessing by way of edification and encouragement to its readers around the world. The contributing authors believe the Bible to be God's infallible Word to man, and on this basis the articles in the magazine contain aim to promote the study of the Bible by providing expositions, commentaries and applications to the time we live in. In recent years each issue has concentrated on a particular subject which has enabled it to cover this in depth and comprehensively. Subjects have included salvation, service, the Old Testament sacrifices, prophecy, preaching, parenting, the Book of Judges, Abraham.

CHILDREN'S READING LIST

Books suitable for younger people and appropriate for Sunday School prizes, home schooling and general reading are listed in our Children's Book Catalogue. Ask for our catalogue. Many of the titles listed in the main section of our catalogue are also very useful for young believers. Some of the titles also exist in other languages.

SECOND HAND BOOKS

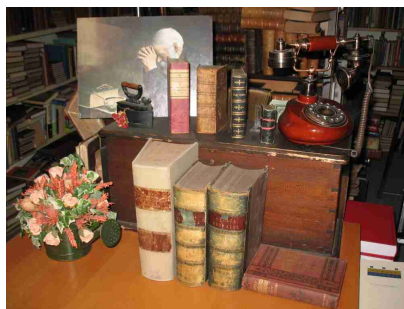

CHAPTER TWO has a constantly changing selection of used books. We try to keep at least 2,000 second hand books and as many old tracts and booklets in stock. We will also search for wanted titles; if you have any requirements for a title within our speciality, please let us know. A catalogue is issued about three a year free of charge to regular buyers of our used book selection. If you wish to receive a catalogue, telephone 020 8316 5389 or write to us at:

Chapter Two S/H Book Dept.
Fountain House, Conduit Mews
London, SE18 7AP

Our latest used-book Catalogue can be downloaded from our website www.chaptertwobooks.org.uk

We also buy second-hand books. Please let us have your list: single volumes or whole libraries considered. Our chief interest is books authored by those once in the so-called 'Brethren Movement'. Manuscripts, old papers, magazines and tracts are all of especial interest to us. Good books, surplus to our requirements, are donated to workers in the mission fields. Your donations of suitable books is also appreciated and your gift will be wholly used to meet the objectives of the trust.

If you are unfamiliar with our books and would like to find out something about them, why not order a copy of the booklet 'Literature and Mission of the so-called Plymouth Brethren or an attempt at a just estimate of their testimony to the revealed truth of God'. Written in 1875 this provides a very interesting assessment of the printed testimony of a movement of the Spirit of God. The author, William Reid M.A., was a Presbyterian minister when he wrote it.

Over 300 languages are now spoken in London! Our books and Bibles are available to order from a wide range of these languages. Stocks are held of Arabic, Chinese, Danish, Dutch, French, German, Greek, Hungarian, Indian vernaculars, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Polish, Russian, Scandinavian and Spanish books, etc., etc.

Nordic Lands

Åland, Denmark, Faeroe Islands, Finland, Greenland, Iceland, Norway, Sweden.

Chapter Two also has a special interest in Scandinavian publications and published under the imprint of Kristen Litteratur, which is based in Norway, with an office in Sweden. Our list of titles translated into the various Nordic languages is increasing. Please contact us if you are interested in obtaining any of these.

The Holy Bible

The best book we stock is the Holy Bible. We have an excellent selection of Bibles at our shop and can supply to our mail order customers too. The greater part of our English stock comprises KJV (AV) Bibles and New Testaments, but we also carry literal translations such as the Young's and Darby's 'New Translation' and study editions: Newberry and Scofield Bibles.

Chapter Two also holds an extensive range of foreign language Bibles. We try to secure the most reliable translation currently available. Here is a list of some of the languages stocked by us:

FAQ Frequently Asked Questions by M. Hardt

Designed to meet the information needs of busy people, the title itself 'Frequently Asked Questions' has been reduced to the acronym 'FAQs'. There couldn't be more important information to take in than the subject of this book: Christian truth - 'the faith once delivered unto the saints' (Jude 3). The author's direct and concise style takes the form of FAQs, not to dodge detailed and intensive Bible study but to encourage younger readers to get started doing it. He covers the person, sufferings, offices and return of the Lord Jesus, the gospel both in terms of justification and deliverance, the church today and the inspiration of the Bible.

Life and Times of C. H. Mackintosh by E. N. Cross

Known to many simply as CHM, he was a much loved Christian preacher and writer of the 19th century. We are pleased to publish the first full-length biography of this distinguished servant of God, completed by the founder of Chapter Two, Edwin Cross, just before he passed away. Converted at 18, CHM gave up his secular employment in his thirties to serve God more fully. Dwight Moody, the famous American evangelist, wrote of his collection of CHM's writings that he 'would rather part with my entire library, excepting my Bible, than with these writings. They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures.' Why not add this biography to your library and learn about CHM's early days, career as a writer, involvement in the 1859 revival, views on controversies of his times, and closing days?

THANK YOU

Your purchase helps the Chapter Two Trust and Bible Distributors get the Word of God around the world. When you buy from Chapter Two you are helping people throughout the world obtain sound gospel literature and Bible study books. Bibles are sent free of charge into H M Prisons and Immigration Detention centres. Literature is sent out to over 100 countries in over 115 languages, many of which are in the 'Third World' and former communist countries.

The work of Chapter Two is not a business but a mission. Neither our workers nor Trustees receive any salaries at all. This enables any surplus to be ploughed straight into the literature distribution work. We regularly receive letters telling us how correspondents have been helped by the literature. The influence of the printed page is greater than we perhaps imagine. How important, then, to ensure that sound and reliable literature gets into the hands of eager readers. In eternity we will see and admire the extent of God's wonderful grace.
